

Berkeley Castle Covid 19 - Tenant Update

#24 - August 24, 2020

I stand corrected: A respected medical professional has advised me that in fact, if you are in a location where you don't need to have your mask (correctly) over your mouth and nose, that the method below is actually a much better way to wear your mask, than putting it under your chin, where there is a much greater risk of spreading the virus back onto yourself. Mind you, the best of course, is to just keep your mask on while you are in public.

Covidiot – slang for someone disregarding health and safety guidelines. ie: Look at that covidiot crossing the street, (see staged photo below) who believes that she is properly wearing her mask, because she read that “your masks has to be on top of your nose”.

But, we can't let our guard down:

Political preferences aside, this morning's “talk” from Premier Ford is a good news one. However, with people returning to work, and kids going back to school, my key take away, is still at 4:30 in. (apologies for the ads, I couldn't locate the announcement direct)

Together, let's limit the spread of COVID-19 and prevent future outbreaks.
